

A photograph of a two-story house at night, illuminated with vibrant, multi-colored landscape lighting. The house has a dark roof and light-colored siding. The windows are lit from within, casting a warm glow. The exterior is lit with purple, green, and blue lights. Large trees on either side of the house are also lit with these colors. In the foreground, a stone-paved walkway leads to the house, and several pumpkins are scattered around, some of which are lit from within. The overall scene is festive and spooky.
